playing · with · trust

story territory

boards

small
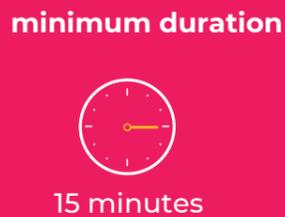

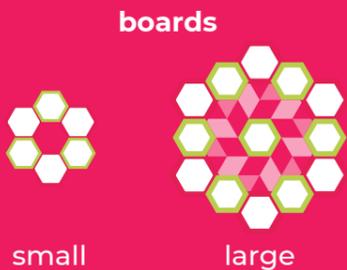

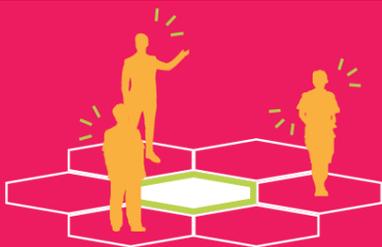

large

minimum duration

15 minutes

minimum number of players

2 people

how to play?

objective of the game: objective of the game: share stories and narratives, according to the superhouse story types: from a book, from another, mine, inverted, made up, continue.
the superhouse is the central hexagon with the highlighted border. in this game, we have the stage in the center of the conversation circle, where the person who is telling the story for that turn.

this board can also be used for conversation circles, exercise practice and chatting.

before you start, attention: two people can never occupy the same house!

step 01

each person stands in the center of one of the houses that form the ring. one participant volunteers to go to the central superhouse, the stage.

step 02

in the superhouse, the types of stories are written on the floor. the participant chooses (and doesn't reveal to anyone) the type of story they want to tell.

step 03
if you want, you can choose a theme for the story, such as one of the following: nature, city, society, that place, memory, or you and I.

step 04

players can also draw a theme and a story type through the app! download the app and point your cell phone to the marker on the edge of the hexagon to see the augmented reality.

step 05

the player in the superhouse will have 5 minutes to tell the story, the other people in the game must guess what kind of story is being told. whoever can guess it, goes to the stage!

step 06

if the story type chosen was "continue", everyone participates! the person starts a story and asks the others to continue until "closing" a narrative. the one who finishes the story goes to the stage.

step 07

the game continues until everyone has passed the stage or has told the stories they want.

now you know all the steps! let's play?